PROLOGUE · THE LOCKED DOOR

Every system begins as a promise and hardens into a wall. The structures built to carry us forward have, for a great many ordinary people, become a corridor of locked doors: opaque, indifferent, assembled by hands we never see and governed by rules we were never asked to agree to. You can stand at those doors for a lifetime. You can knock. Most people do.

Novus Mundus does not knock.

This is not a campaign against any person, party, or institution by name. It is something quieter and more stubborn: the decision to stop waiting for a door to open, and to begin building a room of our own. A new world, NOVUS MUNDUS, assembled not out of grievance but out of the oldest resource there has ever been, the only one that has ever truly moved anything: other people who decide to stand together.

The world this project takes its mood from is a closed one, a place where the individual is watched, sorted, and made small, where the system is everywhere and belongs to no one you can reach. We do not pretend that world away. We answer it the only way that has ever worked: by refusing to face it alone, and by building something open in the place where something closed used to be.

“A wall is only a wall until enough people build on the other side of it.”

PHASE ONE

THE GATHERING

A flag to find each other by.

Not a manifesto, not a fund, not a hierarchy—

a fire lit where strangers can see it.

WHY A NEW WORLD

Midway through his life, the one who first wrote in this Ledger lost the road. Nothing dramatic had happened to him; that was the horror of it. The old world does not collapse. It thins. The money moved faster every year and meant less every year he held it. A thousand voices reached him by morning and not one of them knew his name in the way a name should be known. He was seen by everything and known by nothing.

You know the feeling, or you would not have read this far.

The instinct most people are taught is to bang harder on the doors they were locked out of: to ask the same gatekeepers, more loudly, for a little more room. Novus Mundus begins from a different instinct. If the old rooms are closed, you do not spend your one life in the hallway. You build a new room, and you leave the door open behind you.

A meme coin is an unlikely place to start such a thing, and we will not pretend otherwise. But a meme is simply a shared idea that travels: a flag light enough for anyone to carry and bright enough for strangers to recognise across a crowd. That is exactly what a scattered, locked-out people need first. Not a fund. Not a hierarchy. A flag to find each other by. Everything Novus Mundus hopes to become is built on top of that first, simple act of recognition: you are not the only one standing outside the door.

THE CHARTER · WHAT WE HOLD

THESE ARE THE COMMITMENTS NOVUS MUNDUS IS BUILT ON. They are written here plainly so that they can be held to. This is the covenant offered at the first fire, before any coin changes hands:

- ◆ THE COMMUNITY IS FREE, ALWAYS. There is no entry fee, no gate, and no toll, not now and not later. You join by showing up. The token is a flag to gather under, never a ticket sold at a door.
- ◆ EVERY VOICE CARRIES. It does not matter who you are or what you do. A holder of a few dollars and a holder of a great many are members in full alike. We are building a tent wide enough for every kind of person, because a new world needs every kind of person to build it.
- ◆ WE MOVE IN THE OPEN. Liquidity arrangements, the team's release schedule, and the treasury's activity are visible on-chain and disclosed in advance. Trust here is not asked for as a favour; it is earned by being checkable.
- ◆ WE PROTECT THE HOLDERS WHO BACK US. Liquidity is locked. The team is vested on the same clock as everyone else. The treasury moves in small, pre-announced steps. We will not betray the people who chose to stand with us by treating their commitment as ours to dump.
- ◆ IN TIME, WE INVEST IN EACH OTHER. The long ambition is a community where members choose, voluntarily and individually, to support and back one another's ideas—person to person, not a managed fund, not a promise of return. The point is mutual encouragement, and the dignity of being taken seriously regardless of where you started.

THE STRUCTURE

THE THRESHOLD

A promise is only worth the ledger it is written in.

Here is what can be checked.

THE GATE, AND WHAT IT ASKS

Every serious thing has a threshold, and every threshold asks something of the one who crosses it. In the old world the door asks for your money, your credentials, your permission slip. This one asks for something rarer, and gives back something the old doors never could: a structure you are allowed to read.

Above the gate of Novus Mundus, cut deep and blacked with age, four lines are written. They are the terms of entry, and they are also a warning, because welcome and warning are one door seen from its two sides.

THROUGH ME THE WAY TO THE GATHERED FEW.

THROUGH ME THE WAY OUT OF THE AGE OF NOISE.

THROUGH ME THE WAY AMONG THE PEOPLE FOUND.

LAY DOWN ALL CERTAINTY, YE WHO ENTER HERE.

Lay down your certainty, but not your judgement. What follows is written to be checked, line by line, against the chain itself.

TOKENOMICS · THE SUPPLY

NOVUS MUNDUS USES A DELIBERATELY SIMPLE SUPPLY SPLIT: three allocations, no hidden reserves, no privileged unlocks. The token is launched on Solana via Raydium. The structure below is built so the community can read it, verify it, and hold it to account.

ALLOCATION	SHARE	PURPOSE & MECHANISM
LIQUIDITY	80%	Paired into the Raydium pool at launch and locked through a Burn & Earn position. The LP tokens are permanently locked, so liquidity cannot be withdrawn from beneath the market; only the trading fees remain claimable, via the retained Fee Key NFT.
MARKETING	10%	Held in a single, publicly labelled treasury wallet. Up to 1% of total supply—that is, 10% of this allocation—may be released in any given month to fund growth, and every release is disclosed in advance. A bounded, transparent runway rather than open-ended sell pressure.
TEAM	10%	Vested on-chain through Streamflow on a published schedule. No instant unlock, no privileged early exit; the team is released on the same clock everyone can read.

NOTES ON THE STRUCTURE

Total supply is fixed at the mint and is not inflationary. There are no allocations beyond the three shown: no private round, no hidden team wallets, no silent reserve. All relevant contract and wallet addresses are published at launch so that every figure here can be checked directly on-chain. The Raydium pool is configured on the 0.25% fee tier, chosen to keep trading friction low and remain comfortably routable for the wider community.

LIQUIDITY & TRUST MECHANICS

MOST HARM DONE TO SMALL HOLDERS IN THIS SPACE COMES FROM THREE MOVES: pulling liquidity, dumping a team allocation, and acting in the dark. Novus Mundus is structured to make the first two difficult and the third visible.

- LOCKED LIQUIDITY. Eighty per cent of supply is paired into the Raydium pool and locked through a Burn & Earn position. The liquidity itself cannot be withdrawn from underneath the market. What remains is the right to claim the pool's trading fees, held through a retained Fee Key NFT: fees, not the liquidity that earns them.
- VESTED TEAM. The team allocation is vested on-chain through Streamflow on a schedule published for anyone to read. No instant unlock, no back door. The people building Novus Mundus are released on exactly the clock the community can see, which aligns the team with holders rather than against them.
- A TREASURY THAT MOVES IN THE OPEN. The marketing allocation lives in one publicly labelled wallet. Funds are converted in small, disclosed amounts, up to 1% of total supply in any month, each release announced beforehand. Growth is paid for in daylight, never in a sudden draining of the treasury.

*“Trust is not asked for as a favour.
It is earned by being checkable.”*

PHASE TWO

THE TABLE

*No flame here is struck alone.
Every candle is lit from another.*

THE CROSSING · HOW WE GROW

When the one who wrote this Ledger crossed the threshold, the door opened from the inside, and it took many hands to open it. That is the first thing anyone learns of the Order: nothing here opens by one hand alone. His candle was lit from another candle, and that one from another, back along the passage in a lineage of small fires. No flame at the Table is ever struck alone. Every flame is given.

So the community grows in deliberate stages, and each is earned rather than assumed. We move to the next only when we have earned the trust the next one requires. Anonymity at the start is not secrecy for its own sake; it keeps the focus on conduct rather than personalities while a reputation is still being built. As trust accrues, the project becomes more open and more personal, not less.

PHASE I

THE GATHERING

Launch as an open community and a meme: a flag to rally around. Founders remain anonymous while trust is earned. Build culture, voice, and a record of acting in the open.

PHASE II

THE TABLE

As trust deepens, the community begins to meet—yearly gatherings. Identities can step forward by choice, never by demand. Members start to encourage and back one another's ideas.

PHASE III

THE NETWORK

A standing network where members choose to support each other's work. Ideas find people; people find ideas. The meme matures into something that builds.

None of these stages is a deadline or a guarantee. They are a direction of travel, held loosely and pursued honestly. The early phases ask little of anyone but presence. The later ones—meetings, and the mutual backing of ideas—are invitations the community grows into together, if it chooses to, and only once the trust to support them genuinely exists.

PARTICIPATION & DIRECTION

NOVUS MUNDUS IS OPEN BY DEFAULT. You participate by holding, by showing up, and by adding your voice; there is nothing further to buy and no rank to climb. As the community matures, direction is meant to emerge from it rather than be handed down to it. The yearly gatherings are the moments where the community takes stock together, shares what it is building, and decides—out loud—where it wants to go next.

Because the long ambition is for members to support and back one another's ideas, the culture matters more than any single rule. The standard Novus Mundus holds itself to is simple: take people seriously regardless of where they started, keep your word in the open, and treat another member's trust the way you would want your own to be treated.

*“We do not promise the storm will pass.
We promise a table inside it.”*

— THE PLAIN WORDS, SPOKEN AT THE TABLE —

· I V ·

PHASE THREE

THE NETWORK

*A new world is never given.
It is built—hand to hand, name by name,
one lit candle at a time.*

THE WORK THAT REMAINS

They gave the ninety-ninth nothing he could spend. They gave him what spending never buys: a seat, a name, and a work. And the work is the world itself—the new one—which is neither found nor granted, for a new world is never given. It is built. Hand to hand, name by name, one lit candle at a time.

That is the whole of the ambition, stated without ornament. Everything above—the flag, the locked liquidity, the vested team, the treasury that moves in daylight, the gatherings, the slow turn from meme to network—exists to serve one plain end: a place where ordinary people, locked out of the old rooms, take each other seriously and build in the open together. We do not know everything it will become. We know the direction, and the first principle that must hold for any of the rest to follow: we keep faith with the people who keep faith with us.

RISK, REGULATION & HONEST WORDS

NOVUS MUNDUS WOULD RATHER TELL YOU THE TRUTH THAN FLATTER YOU INTO A POSITION. The following is written plainly and on purpose. Read it as carefully as the rest.

- NOT FINANCIAL ADVICE. Nothing here is investment, financial, legal, or tax advice, and nothing is a recommendation to buy, hold, or sell. It is a description of a community project and the structure of a token. Make your own decisions, and seek advice from a qualified professional before committing funds.
- NO PROMISE OF PROFIT OR VALUE. $NOVUS is a community token, not a share, a security offering, or a claim on any income or asset—and its price may go to zero. The structural commitments here—locked liquidity, vested team, a treasury that moves in disclosed steps—are about conduct and transparency. They are not, and cannot be, a guarantee about price.

- CRYPTO-ASSETS ARE VOLATILE AND RISKY. Value can fall as quickly as it rises. Only commit what you are entirely prepared to lose, and never more. Smart-contract, market, liquidity, and operational risks all apply.
- MUTUAL BACKING IS NOT A MANAGED FUND. The future ambition for members to support one another's ideas describes voluntary, individual, person-to-person support. It is not a pooled investment vehicle, not a fund managed by the project on anyone's behalf, and not a promise of any return.
- EVOLVING REGULATION. The regulatory treatment of crypto-assets is developing, including under the European Union's Markets in Crypto-Assets framework (MiCA). This is a community document and not an offer or solicitation in any jurisdiction where such an offer would be unlawful. The project intends to take qualified legal advice on its obligations before launch, and elements described here may change to meet them.
- FORWARD-LOOKING STATEMENTS. The phases and ambitions described—networks, gatherings, mutual support—are aspirations held in good faith and subject to change. They describe a direction the community hopes to travel, not commitments it is bound to deliver on a timeline.

If any part of this paper ever reads as a promise of riches, read it again: it is not one. What is offered here is a flag, a structure built to be checked, and the company of other people who decided not to stand at the door alone.

THIS IS THE BEGINNING

Novus Mundus starts small and admits it: a meme, a flag, a handful of people who recognised each other across the noise. We do not know everything it will become, and we will not pretend we do. We know only the direction—outward, open, together—and the principle that has to hold for any of the rest to follow: we keep faith with the people who keep faith with us.

The old doors will stay locked; that was never the fight. The fight is to build something worth standing in on the other side of them, and to leave the door open for whoever comes next.

So the account closes the way it was always going to close. The one who wrote it walked back up the stairs and out into the age of noise, carrying one dark coin rimmed in red and one instruction: find the next one who is falling, and offer them a direction.

There was never any other mark, friend. This page is the coin.

Turn it over.

You are not lost. You are early. There is room. There is always room.

KNOCK ONCE.
SAY THE NAME OF THE WORLD YOU WANT.
